

HSCI 345 Hybrid: Issues in Public Health Department of Health Sciences

CURRENT ISSUE SUMMARY DIRECTIONS

Paper Requirements: All papers must be 3 complete pages minimum, typed, double-spaced, using 12 point font (Arial or Times New Roman), and with 1-inch margins. You must follow page limitations as specified in the grading rubric. The reference list does not count toward page limitations. Please format your references using APA or AMA style. An abstract is not required. If you decide to include an abstract – note that it is not included in the page number requirement.

Submit an electronic copy of your current event paper to Canvas via a Turnitin link prior to the class session you are scheduled to present your current event on. Failure to submit to Turnitin will constitute a score of zero (0) on the assignment. NO EXCEPTIONS!

Note: In addition to the required elements specified in the grading rubric, all papers will be graded on grammar, punctuation, and spelling. Papers should also follow the APA or AMA style manual of referencing citations. This includes proper citation of reference materials in the text and the reference section at the end of the paper.

Selection of Topic: You should select any current public health event or ongoing health problem from a professional and reputable publication. Examples are:

- Daily publications, websites, tweets, social media outlets, — (e.g.): Los Angeles Times, New York Times, etc.
- Weekly publications— (e.g.): Time, Newsweek, etc.
- Health-related websites

Public Health journals and public health publications can be used to supplement your primary article with additional information. Fact sheets and/or results of a study are not acceptable sources. If you are unsure of a source's credibility, check with me first. The chosen topic must be current, occurring within the last 6-9 months. You must completely cite your sources and include a link to your source to your paper. Point Distribution: Your summary should cover the following areas—

1. Introduction: Provide a summary of the article and an objective overview of the public health issue. What issue is the article highlighting? Discuss why this is a public health issue. PROVIDE THE LINK FOR YOUR ARTICLE FOR ME TO REVIEW.
2. Introduction: Provide a summary of the article and an objective overview of the public health issue. What issue is the article highlighting? Discuss why this is a public health issue. PROVIDE THE LINK FOR YOUR ARTICLE FOR ME TO ACCESS.
3. Cause and severity of the issue: Discuss the causes and severity of the health issue. Who is affected, what are the current statistics, what are the risk factors?
4. Intervention: Identify public health agencies involved (or should be involved, examples include CDC, FDA, NIH, California Department of Public Health). What specific interventions are discussed? What steps are being taken to remedy the health problem? Provide examples.
5. Recommendations: Your detailed suggestions for additional prevention efforts to address this problem. Your recommendations should directly reflect and be specifically supported by course readings and discussions. Make specific references to these readings.
6. Mechanics: Sentence structure, grammar, spelling, appropriate APA or AMA style
7. You may need to use more than one source in addition to your primary article to meet the requirements as listed in the rubric. For example, if your article does not mention a specific public health agency then you may need to find another source that explains what agency/agencies are typically involved in addressing your public health current event related topic.
